Headline:
Dry with sunny spells and light winds.

Today:
After a chilly start, with a frost in some rural locations, temperatures will rise to near average values, but it will feel milder with the light winds and plenty of sunshine. However, a little patchy cloud could develop this afternoon. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry and becoming largely clear, with light winds and perhaps some isolated mist of fog forming. A widespread slight frost will develop. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Saturday:
Any early patchy mist or fog will clear, leaving a mainly dry, rather mild and sunny day. However, cloud will increase across northern areas, mainly across Derbyshire, perhaps bringing drizzle. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
It will often be rather cloudy, especially along the coast where patchy mist and fog could arrive, but still sunny spells will develop. Temperatures remaining near average, with light winds.
